

2009 Portrait Information:

Ger Lawlor Photography aims to provide clients with high quality special images to be cherished for many years.

Introduction

Portraits provide lovely memories of special people and special times. Children, teenagers, adults, couples and families should treat themselves to a portrait session at least once in their lifetime. This provides beautiful wall art for the home, and also helps to preserve the family record. Ger Lawlor Photography has a professional and friendly approach to portraiture, giving you high quality images that will endure as time passes.

Your Portrait Sitting

The portrait sitting takes place in our studio, in Park, Wexford, or at your preferred location at a time which suits. All portrait sittings are by appointment and on booking you will give you some guidelines regarding what to wear and some general pointers to making your photo session a more enjoyable experience.

The sitting fee also includes a viewing session, where you can select your images when viewing them on a large screen, at very high quality. You can decide which sizes and types you will like best. Images can be colour, black and white, or sepia. You will then receive a set of printed proofs to keep. These are a great way to show friends and relatives the results of the photo shoot.

Your Prints

Prints can look quite different in the many sizes which are available, and there are many ways to present them. We offer professional advice to help you to get good value for money while showing off your photos.

Photos can be provided in a variety of frames, whether simple white ash, or something more elaborate. Canvas wraps are very popular at the moment and all canvases from Ger Lawlor Photography are treated with a special coating which prevents dust and light from damaging the image. These canvases are professionally printed and stretched, with bright vibrant colours and crisp, sharp, detailed images.

Room Art (Making the most of your photos)

When you have decided which images you like from the photo shoot, it is important to spend some time deciding how best to present them. Every home is different, and pictures look best when the frames and mounts match the décor of a room. If you wish, we can arrange a visit to your home and advise on suitable options, to ensure that the photos are not too big or too small for their location.
